Contractor Connection, Network Members Give Back to Communities Nationwide on 7th Annual Crawford Global Day of Service

ATLANTA (October 12, 2015) — Contractor Connection® employees and their families teamed up with network contractors across the U.S. on Saturday, October 10, to give back to their communities in Crawford & Company's seventh annual Global Day of Service.

Nearly 170 of Contractor Connection's 4,800-plus North American contractor network member companies contributed to helping others in a variety of projects in which they chose to participate. The efforts ranged from charity walks to building and home upgrades, assisting homeless veterans, beautification projects for nonprofit organizations, fundraisers, and a host of others.

In Jacksonville, Fla., more than 80 Contractor Connection employees, along with the help of their families, worked to beautify the grounds of the Children's Home Society of Florida, which serves abused and neglected children through foster home placement, adoptions, Family Life Education for at-risk families and many other services. Volunteers performed exterior cleaning, maintenance and landscaping. Meanwhile, network contractors Belfor USA Group LLC, Flooring America and FRSTeam contributed to build air conditioner enclosures and a covered sandbox for children on campus.

Contractor Connection CEO Larry Thomas was thrilled by the number of contractors who came together to participate in a national effort of helping their local communities. He looks forward to even more companies joining the cause next year.
